

Prof. Pavel Mohr, M.D., Ph.D

Graduated from the Medical Faculty, Charles University Prague in 1990; in 2001 obtained his Ph.D. in Neurosciences. Dr. Mohr works since 1991 at the National Institute of Mental Health, Czechia (formerly the Prague Psychiatric Center), currently as the Clinical Director. From 1995 to 1998, he was a visiting scientist at the Nathan Kline Institute for Psychiatric Research in Orangeburg, New York. Dr. Mohr is a Professor of Psychiatry at the 3rd Medical Faculty, Charles University, teaching pre-graduate medical students and postgraduate students in the PhD program of Neurosciences. He serves as an editorial board member of several international and national psychiatric journals, member of the EPA, President of the Czech Psychiatric Association (2019-2022), Board Member of the Czech Neuropsychopharmacological Society (President 2009-2011), President of the Czech Brain Council (since 2011). Main research interest is clinical neurosciences; Dr. Mohr authored numerous scientific papers in peer-reviewed journals, both in Czech and English, chapters in textbooks and monographs, received several awards (including Czech National Psychiatric Award 2018).

